Silhouettes – a new range with familiar animals

Can you recognise a blackbird or a robin just by the outlines?

Wildlife Garden now launches a totally new range of familiar animal species with characteristic profiles to decorate the garden with life-sized black silhouettes. First to be released is a series of six different birds, firmly standing on a plate with two diagonally placed screw holes for sturdy mounting on a fence, roof or balcony railing. The material is iron, painted in a rust protective paint for extreme durability outdoors. Besides the blackbird and the robin, there are also the little owl, blue tit, great spotted woodpecker and wren.

But look out! The silhouettes are so realistic that the owl, for good and bad, can frighten away other birds.
