Multifeeder Barn

Rural bird magnet

Garden birds are flocking around this year's multifeeder from Wildlife Garden: a beautifully stained feeding box that dispenses several different kinds of bird food.

The feeding box is a real bird magnet that attracts several species to the garden owing to the fact that you can treat your birds to different kinds of food. The feeder holds 5 litres of food served through four different feeding holes. The seed channels are well protected from rain and snow. The box has a thin coat of stain, giving it rural charm. The stain is a water-based acrylic paint, which means that the feeding box will age beautifully in spite of, or thanks to, weather and wind. It is mounted on a post in the garden or a swinging arm on the window for really good visibility. A mounting block, screws and assembly instructions are included.

The larger the variation of food, the more birds you'll attract. If you put out apple, banana and berry, you'll be visited by waxwing and robins. Bullfinches, great tits and nuthatches like sunflower seeds. If you fill one of the sections of the feeder with crushed oats you'll have many satisfied guests. Read more about how to feed our most common garden birds and listen to their song on our website www.wildlifegarden.co.uk.
