A bird feeder with the bird in mind!

Small birds can enjoy their meals in peace with the Townhouse birdfeeder from Wildlife Garden. Just in time for the autumn feeding season, the Townhouse is being presented in two new colours; Townhouse Vanilla and Townhouse Sky Blue.

The Townhouse is a feeder that can be hung anywhere. It is supplied with a strong length of string, which is all that is needed to hang it up. The feeder holds 2.2 litres of seeds. Small birds can easily sit on the short perches, which are too short for birds like magpies and jackdaws, which means that small birds can enjoy their meals in peace.

The patented feeding cylinder allows the birds to eat without having to sit in the food. The food is kept free from droppings and bacteria. The special construction allows you to feed your birds without spillage since the birds won't be able to scatter the seeds everywhere, something that mischievous tree sparrows usually like to do!

Feeding birds

Avoid open feeders where the birds can sit in the food. If spillings end up in the food then the feeder might become a disease carrier. Hemp and flax seeds are very popular with small birds like blue tits, house sparrows and chaffinches. Seed mixtures sold in shops often contain a large amount of oats in them to thin them out. The fact is that very few birds actually eat oats. You can read more about feeding birds on our website www.wildlifegarden.info
